Biographical/Historical Information:

The Waldo County Retired Teachers Association was organized in 1961, largely through the efforts of Lydia Kitchen. Activities of the association include monthly meetings, with programs and speakers, social gatherings, and fund raising for a scholarship fund. The association has been a chapter of the Maine Retired Teachers Association (Now the Maine Education Association – Retired) since its founding.

Scope and Contents:

Meeting minutes, photographs, a typed history and a scrapbook from the local chapter make up the bulk of the collection. These items contain much historical and biographical information about teachers and schools in Waldo County and include photographs, clippings and memorabilia. Some historical information concerning the state organization are also included.
